

Aid to the Developing World

Name: ..... Set .....

You are responsible for allocating £100m of aid to countries in Central and East Africa.

You must decide:

- Which single country is in most need of aid.
- How to allocate aid funds in proportion to the needs of all 10 countries.

Method

- Find a source of information on development data
- Enter data onto the spreadsheet below.
- Make your own choice for the 2 other indicators and enter data in columns F and H.
Calculate averages using the formula = average(b3..b12) etc.
- Use the spreadsheet to calculate an overall development index score. The easiest method is to produce a rank order for each indicator (worst =10) and then to sum the rank scores for each country (the formula has been entered in the last column; you could add a weighting factor eg b2*2 to stress particular indicators.
Select all of the countries and all of the columns before you Calculate-Sort
- Plot the indicator total scores as a choropleth shading map.
Decide on the category intervals and pick darker shades/lines or dots for higher figures ie the countries in need of most aid.

Which country have you chosen to give aid support.....?

Briefly state your reasons:

Use the following sources to find out more about your chosen country:

Apple Menu/Launch Datascape/Academic/Geography/Human/Countries

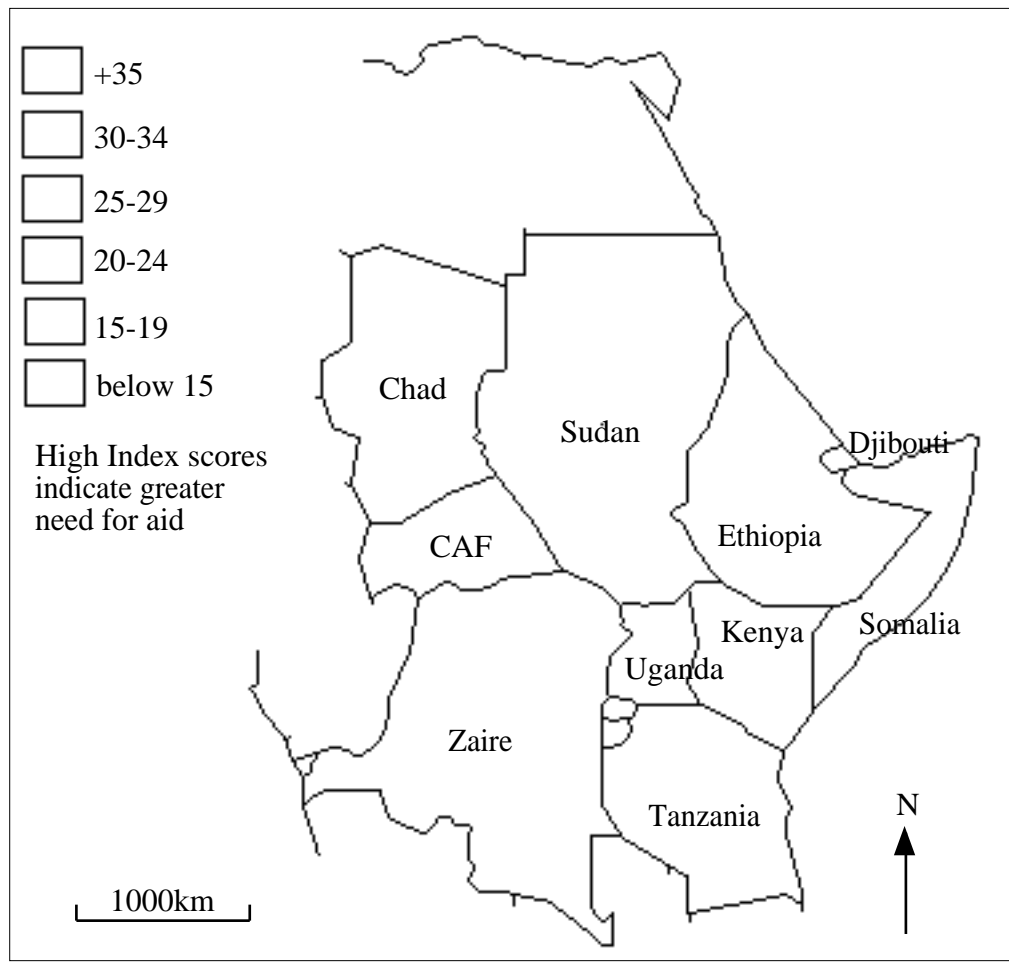

Internet: live research of web pages eg CIA Atlas

Apple/Geog Resources Database and consult the various articles/books/cuttings

Write a summary of your findings below the map.

What other information could/should be taken into account when allocating aid?
